The MEDes challenges

WHY this program?

to spend two years abroad in two different schools, cities and countries of Europe to open the borders of the discipline of design and explore new ways of approaching projects to learn design in another language which can be English but not only

- multicultural experiences
- new faculty and new friends, new student-colleagues, new professionals and designers,...
- open the doors to an international career, often in large companies
- being part of a strong international network of students and alumni
- benefit of the cohesion between the partner schools faculty and staff

The POLIMI MEDes selection and admission

we select up to 6 students from the Laurea Triennale in Product, Interior and Communication Design

we look for motivated, curious, skilled students ready to pack twice and become explorers we look for excellent students who have the English certification in their hands and plan to stay in Polimi for the Laurea Magistrale in Integrated Product design, Product Service System Design, Communication Design or Interior and Spatial Design

(see N/V parameters to access LM)
